

SAID IN CYPRESS

By Newsy

We pride ourselves on being able to "take it" as well as "dish it out," so we'll tell this little story on ourselves, just to make Wes Kroeze and Clyde Arnold happy. It was Friday, a day which only occurs once in every four years when it is legal to be out looking for a victim to end our state of single blessedness. But we were busy with Enterprise work — so busy, in fact, that to save time we left the keys in the car with the motor running while we ran into the post office. To tell the truth, we stayed just a w-e-e-e bit longer than we anticipated. We came out of the building arguing some point or other with the Rev. W. D. Howard and started to edge toward a car — which wasn't there! We'll admit to quite a start when it finally became apparent to our one-tracked mind that there just wasn't a blue Chevie anywhere in sight. One look at the faces of the aforementioned two "gents"— (they should never play poker!) convinced us we were on the right track in accusing the culprits. The car? Oh, it was parked around behind Rick's shop, the motor still running!

There is one big worry on our minds that is going to reach fruition about late summer, we are afraid. In riding around on our errands in this end of the county, we see many, many stagnant pools of water which have still not drained off properly. Some of them are covered with a scum of algae. What a wonderful breeding place for mosquitoes. The county mosquito abatement program, which is not too old, has a Herculean task on its hands this spring, that's for sure. We already hear the ominous sound of those buzz-bombers in the distance as they prepare to attack en masse. Ouch! Who said we didn't have a good imagination?

A fire which never made the headlines caused quite a little confusion and excitement Monday evening about six o'clock. The way we heard it, Steve Luther and Rex Martin were hauling some wood chunks for the fire place in a pick-up truck. One of the logs was smouldering and as they drove along Lincoln Avenue in the semi-darkness passing motorists yelled to them that their truck was on fire. Not being able to take it any longer, they stopped at the Cypress beverage store, and Steve went in and asked for a cup of water. (Yeah, they give that away!) Imagine Clyde's surprise when Steve walked out with the paper cup full of water, threw it on the offending log — and put out the fire!

There's no landmark around town that is quite as useful as the two palm trees on the park site. In case you never really knew the spot people are talking about when they mention the future park, take a notice next time you are over Crescent and Watson streets way. That is about a block away from the corner of Crescent and Walker. There they stand, two sentinels of a "promised land." We trust that plans don't call for their being destroyed. For the four years we've lived here they've stood as a living reminder that some day a goal would be attained.

The last time we saw it snow

Ham Dinner Goes Over Big

P.T.A. members were highly gratified with the success of their ham dinner given at the schoolhouse Thursday evening. A profit of $146 was realized. Out of this sum $10 was earmarked as a donation to the Cypress coordinating council, and $5 for a special welfare fund. Three record players will be purchased for the school. Mrs. Harry Smits, president, and Mrs. Melvin Callahan, chairman of the ways and means committee expressed sincere appreciation and gratitude to the townspeople for their splendid response and cooperation.

Tie for First

So great was the competition among students in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in a contest to sell the most tickets, a tie resulted. Mrs. Henrietta Arnold's sixth and Vern Martin's, sixth grades both sold 83 tickets apiece. They will each receive a record album of their own selection as a reward.

The fire siren Monday afternoon signalled a false alarm, according to Fire Chief A. E. Arnold.

County Employees Set 'D' Day For Demonstration Of County Services

Biggest business in Orange county is the official business of the county itself.

Orange county is a corporation with 1600 employees and 250,000 "stockholders", counting each citizen. It does an annual business of more than $15 million.

Its assets approach a half-billion dollars, as represented by the assessed wealth of its "stockholders" and the property owned by the corporate body itself.

The money and manpower of this big business are brought together for a single purpose—to serve the needs and wants of its stockholders.

Just what does this big corporation do for its stockholders, and how is it done?

These are matters which the people of the county should know, in the belief of the 1600 county employees. So they are arranging to make the knowledge available.

They are renewing a successful earlier project under the designation "Know Your County Government". And they have planned a big "Demonstration Day" for Saturday, May 17.

On that day—D Day—they propose to demonstrate what the County of Orange accomplishes and how it is accomplished. They will spread county government before the eyes of everyone who will come to the courthouse. And they hope that everyone does come.

Officials of the Orange County Employees Association made that announcement today, and plunged into preparations for the big event, which they propose to make an annual or biennial affair.

They originated the idea here several years ago. Since then, it has taken hold and spread to other counties and cities. It has become a major project of the State As-

RED CROSS FUND DRIVE PROGRESSES

Under the direction of Mrs. T. W. Clark, rural and school representative for the Anaheim Red Cross fund drive, solicitation in this area is progressing.

Mrs. C. L. Wicker, 6062 Lincoln ave., is again chairman in the Centralia school district. The Rev. W. D. Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Kelley are canvassing dairies and businesses.

As Mrs. Clark has aptly stated, the blood bank alone that the Red Cross maintains is reason enough to give.

SCOUTERS ENGAGE IN TROOP ACTIVITY

Boy Scouts in Cypress have their charter renewed and are again hard at work to establish their troop and build for a strong future. Under the leadership of Warren Ter Beest, the boys are meeting every Monday evening in the Sunday school annex of the Cypress Church of the Nazarene.

Plans are being completed for some "over-nights" and other activities which make scouting interesting to boys and their scoutmaster and assistants.

Parents interested in the scouting program for their boys may contact Ter Beest through the school.

sociation of County Employees. Two years ago, two Orange county employees, Ernest Wooster and Arthur Anderson, donated a large trophy to be awarded to the county which does the most to enlighten the public or to improve efficiency.

San Diego county won it first. Riverside county won it last year. This year, Orange county employees are determined to win it themselves. D-Day, May 17, will be their big bid for the trophy, as well as their exhibit of county government to the people.

There are many facets to the county's service to its people, they point out. It guards their safety. It guards their property and seeks to promote its orderly development. It guards their collective personal health and the health of their livestock, their trees and their crops.

It helps to feed, clothe and shelter those who are needy, and gives them medical care and hospitalization.

It provides for leisure time with facilities for recreation in the mountains or by the seashore, in the garden spot of the nation.

It builds their roads, helps educate their children, provides libraries, lights and landing fields.

It does all these things as efficiently and economically as possible, the employees emphasize. The measure of that efficiency and economy in Orange county, they point out, is shown by the record. Orange county currently has the lowest county tax rate in the state, $1.15 per $100 of assessed property valuation. That enviable position is the more significant because it is not new, they add. Orange county always has the lowest or almost the lowest tax rate in the state.

How it is done will be shown on D-Day, May 17.

Authority On Sewers Will Speak To Public At Chamber Monday

Call Special Council Meet

At the call of the president of the Cypress Coordinating Council, H. J. G. Kreissler, a special meeting will be held Friday evening. The group will convene at the home of A. E. Arnold's 5541 Bishop street, at eight o'clock.

An invitation has been extended to the presidents and representatives of all the clubs and organizations represented in the council to be present.

Cypress Has Leap Year Celebrant!

Evan David John II, son of Mr. and Mrs. William John, Saint Ann ave., celebrated his fourth year but very first birthday with a long awaited birthday party last Friday, February 29.

As a "Leap Year" baby, David's anticipation of his first party was very keen. The lovely afternoon arranged by his mother was attended by many of his young friends and fulfilled all his expectations.

Birthday cake, ice cream and favors were served, followed by favorite games. Those present for the gala occasion were Chris and Henry Jensen, Rich and Ronald Harris, Bobby Potts, David and Cathy Boeckeler, Larry Sanders, Bobby King, Gary Jacobs, Allen Muesse, Micheal John, Leah Hyatt, Edythe Lindley, Sharon Johnson and Cynthia Canfield.

Insurance Is Subject Of Kiwanis Talk

The customary rule of fining a member if he mentions his business at a meeting was overlooked Monday night by the Kiwanis club as Frank Noe talked before the group on insurance.

He discussed various types of policies, pointed out in what situations they should be carried. During the talk, he answered questions concerning insurance, and gave examples of cases to illustrate his points.

Program chairman for the evening was Haskell Kelley, and the meeting was in the charge of President Dick Hathcock. Miss Allene Rogers was the pianist.

Guests were J. E. Stogdill and L. D. O' Halloran.

TO MOUNTAINS

Twenty-eight young people from the Nazarene church enjoyed a retreat in the snow country recently.

Under the leadership and guidance of their elders, they found fun in the out-of-doors on Friday and Saturday, with a season of spiritual fellowship around the great fire in the evening at Forest Home, in the mountains near Idyllwild.

A special meeting of the Cypress chamber of commerce has been called with the general public invited Monday night at 8 in the Cypress school.

Lester E. Boyle, of the Lester E. Boyle Engineering firm in Los Angeles, has consented to come out to discuss the possibilities of getting sewers installed in Cypress, and what steps would have to be taken in order to get the job done.

He is well-qualified to discuss the subject as his firm has made several surveys for nearby towns, including Stanton and Los Alamitos.

The special meeting is part of a plan of the Chamber to get as many views on the sewer problem as possible from men who are acquainted with the situation here.

Boyle will also tell the group what results could be expected if a detailed survey of the area were taken in order to find out approximate costs and problems involved in various types of systems which might be installed.

Kiwanis Dismiss

The Kiwanis club, which meets at the same time, will eat at the regular time at Loyd's drive-in, then dismiss to attend the meeting as a group in lieu of their regular meeting, according to Haskell Kelley, program chairman.

Jim Broadbelt will have charge of the Chamber program.

Dental Survey Plans Complete

Plans have been completed and a schedule set up for the dental survey which will take place at the Cypress elementary school Wednesday, March 12, beginning at 9 a.m.

Mrs. J. A. Bolinger, Jr., announces that the quota of volunteers from among mothers has been reached. Twenty of them have offered an assist in running the children through the examinations. They will aid the dentists by keeping the lines moving and everything in readiness.

Miss Elizabeth Dickerson, superintendent, states that the afternoon kindergarten class will meet with the morning class for this one day only, so that all pupils may participate.

CYPRESS REBEKAHS GET HIGH POSTS

Mrs. Vickie Milbourn, noble grand and Mrs. Ethel Cleveland, past noble grand of Cypress Rebekah lodge No. 406, have been chosen to serve as members of the drill team of the state president. These escorts are known as the "girls in blue."

The local unit dismissed its meeting early Tuesday evening in order to visit in a group at the Costa Mesa meeting. Mrs. Jennie Mae Annin, district deputy, made her official visit. Attending in addition to the two escorts were Mmes. Ruth Pugh, Dolly Teutschman, Dorothy Lukens, Anna McCoid, Thelma Essex and Leona Caul.

On Wednesday evening six members attended courtesy night at the lodge meeting in Fullerton.

Editorials

WITH THIS WE AGREE

Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Main, who was once the circulation manager on her home-town paper, had some nice things to say about country newspapers in one of her recent syndicated columns.

"Weekly papers," said Mrs. Smith, "enjoy the highest confidence of their readers. They swear by their newspaper. Perhaps this is because they feel about the weekly editor and publisher as I do in the belief that you don't fool a weekly editor. He has an advantage over the editor of a large metropolitan paper in that he knows most of the people that his paper serves."

"Perhaps," she continued, "the real strength of the weekly editor is that while he is informed he never reaches the stage of permitting sophistication to make him blase and indifferent. He retains a wholesome and refreshing earthiness."

As to those who read weekly newspapers, Mrs. Smith says they don't do a "hop-and-skip glancing job". "Instead," she declares, "they read the whole paper from cover to cover, from column to column and from word to word. And they don't even stop at this point. They do a lot of thinking about what they have read in the weekly paper."

We thank Mrs. Smith for her encouraging and reassuring comment. Would that more local residents had the same appreciation of their weekly newspaper. It would mean greater support and help us do a still better job in serving the community.

EVERY DOLLAR COUNTS

We have grown so accustomed to the Red Cross as a great humanitarian agency whose help is always available in peace and war that we couldn't imagine doing without it. Yet, the Red Cross does not have an automatic existence. It lives and helps others to live because of the public donations which make its work possible.

The annual Red Cross fund drive which is on this month is a reminder to all of us that we have an opportunity, a responsibility, in the continued activity of the Red Cross. The national goal running into many millions is the minimum figure required for the year ahead.

To reach it, the giving must be widespread—and generous. Donations reaching into many thousands of dollars will be made by business concerns such as Pacific Telephone Company, Bank of America, Standard Oil and others, but important though these are, the small contributions from groups and individuals are no less vital. Because one can't give a lot, this should not deter him from giving what he can. If every person in the country gave but a dollar the goal would be reached with plenty to spare.

Certainly, no clear thinking American needs to be sold on the services of the Red Cross. Its record speaks for itself. Let your dollars speak for you!

I RISE TO REMARK

By JOHN PHILLIPS

On February 22nd, each year, Congress meets, and one of us reads Washington's Farewell Address. The Member is selected by the Speaker, and he alternates Republicans and Democrats, year by year. The records would indicate this started in 1912, which would make 41 years.

In 1916, this honor was given to John Edward Raker, a Representative from Alturas, in the first district of California. We then had 8 Representatives. In 1946, the Address was read by Clair Engle, the Representative from Red Bluff, in the second district. By then we had 23 Representatives. Last year the reader was a first term Republican from Indiana, and this year the Address was read by a second term Democrat from Kansas City, Missouri.

It is impressive to listen to the Address and think of present conditions in the United States. Congress usually adjourns without transacting other business. The only exception in my ten times, was in 1950. That year February 22nd came on Wednesday and the committee on Labor insisted on its rights under the "Calendar Wednesday Rule" and tried to bring up an FEPC bill. I call the attention again, of those earnest souls who fell for the "liberalization" propaganda, in connection with Rules Committee procedures, several years ago, that this Calendar Wednesday rule has existed from time immemorial and is the protection of minorities, in and out of the Congress, against deep-freeze treatment by the Rules Committee.

I observed, with amusement, that the bleeding hearts evidently wanted publicity, not action, for they cried for the minorities, but made no use of the effective rules of the House. Your own Congressman was criticized by self-styled "liberal" groups for voting to return the rule to its proper form,

Big Hand of Big Government

*News Item—The Federal Government currently is taking nearly 80 cents out of every dollar collected in taxes from American citizens.

and thus prevent a return of the dictatorship of Uncle Joe Cannon. Yet your Congressman has three times prevented the government from condemning areas in which members of a minority group have bought land and built homes. Which is more practical; to moan and cry for minority groups, for political reasons only, or to try to stop the encroachments of socialistic government, which invariably destroys the freedoms of minorities? I suspect the brothers and sisters who were about to lose their homes have no illusions; there was talk of a monument in the local park, an idea which was hastily vetoed by your embarrassed Congressman. It might have looked like that De Anza statue at 14th and Market!

Another thing which interests me, in the Lincoln and Washington month, is the strange effect television is having on the political mind. It is just as well the nation didn't have television in Washington's day. The painters who handed his likeness down to us have left us a tall and dignified man, with no facial blemishes. Even the ill-fitting dentures, recorded by history, have been adjusted by most artists. Yet the painting, made when Washington was 64 years old for the Lodge of which he was the first Master, and which he called the best likeness, shows him with a mole and a disfiguring scar on one cheek.

This is no discredit, any more than it was a discredit to Lincoln to be tall, and ungainly, and at times uncouth, so that a newspaper, in 1861, called him the "august baboon." What interests us today, 90 years later, is the influence of a new and superficial agent of communication. We are actually considering the selection of a candidate for the Presidency, in our time of greatest national danger, on the basis of his television appeal. Some of us hesitate, over the one candidate openly acknowledged as the most competent, and the most likely to draw us back from the brink of destruction, because he "lacks glamor." We are tempted to lean to a candidate whose platform is unknown, and whose greatest attribute is television appeal. On this basis, we might as well select Faye Emerson.

I rise to remark I have had my fill of glamor. I work in this shop! We had glamor here from 1932 to 1945. We now have a national debt of $260,119,435,267.49 which continues to rise with each daily report. We have a tax bill which in 6 years has exceeded the entire previous 159 years. We have had two wars, one of which we are fighting now. We have a deficit budget. We have a State Department, running the White House, with whose policies few people agree. We have communism in high places. We have the threat of militarism and dictatorship.

You can have glamor; I'll take ability!

COUNTY COMMENT

By GEORGE E. HART

It may not be long before the once fantastic dream of water conservationists comes true, and the entire habitable area of Orange county will hold membership in the Metropolitan Water district. With water rights on the Colorado river for the whole territory.

In fact, most of that dream which seemed so impossible hardly five years ago is already realized. Territory representing 96 per cent of the county's total assessed valuation was taken into MWD when the Orange County Municipal Water district was annexed last October 16.

Now the rest of it, that southern section below El Toro and South Laguna, including San Juan Capistrano, Dana Point, Capistrano Beach and San Clemente, is seriously discussing the matter of joining the big parade of Southern California territory into MWD membership.

The mountainous eastern fringe of the county, of course, will not be included. It does not count. It's assessed valuation is negligible, most of it being exempt, anyway, as national forest. And it uses no water, so is no drain upon the local supply.

First hint that the southern end of the county was talking MWD came a few weeks ago when C. Roy Browning, the Tustin engineer who handled the engineering for Orange County Municipal Water district, was consulted unofficially by residents of the Capistrano area, with respect to annexing to the new municipal water district.

The cost, at first glance, seemed prohibitive, because water service to the area apparently involv-

Grad Class Has Money Making Project

Only a few more days left to help the eighth graders! In order to raise funds for the annual eighth grade trip to the zoo in San Diego in May which has become tradition with the graduating class, orders are being taken for shirts, caps, hats and scarves for anyone to use, through Friday, March 14.

Each year the class has become larger and larger, so that the expense of their special day has risen proportionately. The eighth graders would appreciate purchase of one or more of the items which they have to sell. A call to the school will bring a salesman to your door.

Miss Elizabeth Dickerson, superintendent, suggests that in case a ball team or other organized unit is being planned for this summer by one or more of the organizations in town, this would be an excellent opportunity to order a set of outfits for each player and help the eighth grade at the same time. Call today. Time is short.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sewell and their two daughters, Leona and Nancy of 8622 La Homa street, entertained members of their family for dinner last Sunday. Those sharing the enjoyment of the day were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Peckham, of Durante, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sewell and their three sons, Bud, Bill, and Bennie, of Norwalk, and Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Marcum, of Pantex, Texas.

Mrs. H. J. G. Kreissler, of 8212 Gay street, enjoyed a visit from very close friends last Friday, when Mrs. Anna Lee Woods, and Mrs. Victoria Spurr and her two children, from Long Beach spent the afternoon with her.

Mrs. Don R. Canfield, 8752 Walker st., has begun music lessons from a teacher in Long Beach. She is learning to play the beautiful Hammond organ which they purchased a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Ruth Lockman, 8622 Belmont st., was ill this week with a touch of the flu and confined at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoyt and two sons, Arnie and Bryan, drove down from Orcutt to spend the weekend with Mrs. Hoyt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Arnold.

Jim Hoxsie, who was seriously injured a few months ago while working for an oil company near Newhall, has been returned to his work, having gained rapidly.

CHRISTEN INFANT IN CHURCH RITES

Marcia Kay, one-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Pugh, 9272 Walker street, was christened in ceremonies held during the ten o'clock mass service last Sunday morning at St. Pius V Catholic church. Father Frederick Kass officiated.

The tiny baby was attended by her godmother, Mrs. Florence Angel of Cypress and godfather, William A. Coffey of Alhambra. Marcia Kay's father and the latter were classmates at Cal Poly institute when both were students there.

After the service, Mr. and Mrs. Pugh were hosts to the party and their families at dinner in their home. The little honoree has two brothers, Ronald and Jeffrey Pugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Muesse and two children of 8802 Cypress avenue, enjoyed the company last Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Freites, and two daughters, Carlene and Joanie, from Wilmington.

Mrs. Roy Coniam, 5581 Vonnie Lane, and her friend, Mrs. Don Briggs, of Long Beach, attended a swank fashion show Tuesday which was presented by one of the large Long Beach department stores.

Seventh Grade Shows Puppets

The seventh grades are sponsoring a marionette show, "Cinderella", for the annual project to raise money for the athletic fund.

Three performances will be given starting at 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. on March 19. Tickets are fifteen cents.

The public is invited and preschool children are welcome when accompanied by their parents.

CHARM PARTY AT BROADBELT'S

Mrs. James Broadbelt and Mrs. Carl Sanders were hostesses at a party last Friday evening held in the former's home, 5561 Vonnie Lane. Called the "Hour of charm," guests were first entertained and then spent the remainder of the evening watching television.

The hostess-duo served delicious light refreshments at the close of the evening.

Present were Mmes. Jesse O. Vaughan, A. E. Arnold, Earl Essex, H. J. G. Kreissler and Evie Junker.

IOOF LODGE GREET TWO NEW MEMBERS

Attending a meeting of the IOOF lodge in Anaheim Tuesday evening was a delegation from the Cypress group. Members Gerald Milbourn, John Thomas and Burt Kroesen were accompanied by two candidates for third degree. They were Ray Van Sant and John J. Coakley.

The latter are now full-fledge members and will be eligible to attend their first business meeting next week when the grand master of California lodges will be present.

SAID IN CYPRESS

was in 1940, until last week-end at Lake Gregory. The younger members of the clan (the ones with the shortest memories) made their semi-annual trek to the mountains and got caught in the nicest bit of winter you could hope for. Just ask Dale how long it takes to climb a mountain when "home" is at the top of it and you're way down at the bottom pushing the Packard which is spinning around in the ice and slush when some "kind" motorist comes along and volunteers a shove before you have time to re-entrain! Sunday morning dawned beautiful and bright, with a gorgeous mantle of trackless white covering the hills, where all had been storm and fury the night before. Somehow or other, it was as though those twelve years in between had never been.

MEET TO SEW

Members of the Cypress VFW auxiliary are engaged in a sewing project. The unit is making corduroy bathrobes for the veterans' hospital in Long Beach.

On March 6 the group met at Mrs. E. E. Goodman's home, 8742 Cypress Avenue. Last week, Mrs. H. J. Kreissler was hostess to the members who gathered to sew in her home at 8212 Gay street. Present were Mmes. Cass Rogers, Milam Williams, Bea Hahn, E. E. Goodman and Tom Demiris.

Giles' Kin Visit Here

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rule, father and mother of Mrs. K. B. Giles, Nelson street, are here from Paonia, Colorado. He is 88 years young and Mrs. Rule is 82. They made the trip west by air.

Mrs. Giles made the trip back to Paonia by motor, traveling with friends. On the plane trip, there were four generations of her family represented. Besides her parents, a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Rhodes brought her two grandchildren along for a visit.

The Rules will be in Cypress for an extended stay.

Club To Meet At Hathcock's

Mrs. Richard Hathcock will be hostess to members of the Cypress Women's Community club when it holds its regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Russell Flynn and Mrs. M. R. "Bob" Jensen will assist Mrs. Hathcock at the dessert luncheon preceding the business meeting. Six new members of the club will be introduced.

Rick Townswick arrived home Thursday. He had been in Story City, Iowa, where he attended funeral services for his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barcellos of Lemoore, Calif., were visitors here this week attending to business matters and seeing their son and family on Bishop st. They were former Cypress residents, having had the big home at Moody and LaPalma streets moved here from Fullerton a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse O. Vaughan, 5532 Bishop st., filled up on ham at the P.T.A. dinner Thursday evening. Then they took off for eNwport bay to fish and were rewarded with a spot fin weighing 3½ pounds.

George Teasdale is spending his leave from the merchant marine at his home in Cypress, 5372½ Bishop ave. His boat docked this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gould of Los Angeles were dinner guests Friday evening of Mrs. Anna Rogers, her daughter Miss Allene Rogers and daughter-in-law Mrs. Castella Rogers of 5571 Vonnie Lane.

INCOME TAX BILLS REFLECT DOUBLE REVENUE INCREASE

"Taxpayers are becoming acutely aware of the double increase in federal income tax," it was announced by the Northern Orange County Committee of Public Accountants at their informal luncheon meeting held recently. The tax increase represents the full impact of the increase voted by Congress in 1950 and applied in small percentage for that year, but applied 100% to 1951 income tax, and also includes a fractional increase occasioned by the 1951 Revenue act, whose full effect will not be felt until 1952.

Because of the complex manner of applying this tax, it has apparently been difficult for the average taxpayer to realize the full import, although the newspapers gave considerable publicity to both acts as they passed through the House and Senate in the respective years in which they were passed. The accountants present discussed some of the more complex accounting problems involved in preparation of the income tax returns.

The subjects discussed included some of the more technical questions concerning self-employment, and the determination by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Social Security Board as to which of these cases were subject to the new tax.

The committee is composed of practicing accountants in Placentia, Fullerton, Anaheim and Buena Park who operate under the rules of the State Board of Accountancy.

Mrs. Beatrice Hahn, was involved in an automobile collision, Monday morning, on her way to work, on Carson boulevard, just west of Norwalk boulevard. Mrs. Hahn was not injured, but her automobile was damaged on the driver's side.

Glen McCloud Says

I'm glad ranchers and orchardists of Orange county haven't demanded a subsidy for their crops from the Federal Government. It's not the democratic way to do business.

When we guarantee a man that he'll receive a certain high price for his product regardless of current prices, we do the majority of the citizens of our country an injustice. After all, who pays the subsidy in the end?

Free enterprise and the law of supply and demand are fundamentals which have made this country strong; and carrying them +, will in the end, overcome economic difficulties encountered through the years.

It is just as reasonable to assure the man who bakes a loaf of bread or the man who mends a shoe that the Government will guarantee the price he will receive for his commodity. Singling out any group for special favor, even though they control votes, is not my idea of Americanism. Because others in our district feel the same way, we shall always do our share in preserving the American Way of Life!

Grand Jury Pleased With Sanitation Effort

Noting with satisfaction that the county sanitation districts have "composed their differences" and are making progress with the county-wide sewerage program, having completed sale of the $8,308,000 bond issue, the Orange county grand jury today gave a pat on the back to the district boards, and at the same time a warning that critical sewage problems demand speedy solution.

Commenting on the "accelerated rate" of progress with the sewerage program, a grand jury resolution added:

"However, this does not in any way abate the critical shortage of sewerage works, which will undoubtedly result in further overflow of raw sewage into populated communities. We believe that these overflows will be in greater amount and for longer periods of time, before facilities can be prepared to correct the situation.

"Consequently (the grand jury) would like to commend the sanitation district boards for the rapid progress that has been made and urges that every possible measure be taken to expedite the program."

The grand jury further recommended that the sanitation districts set up a planning committee or other agency to gather information concerning population and industrial growth of the county, so that sanitation needs can be anticipated and met prior to the development of serious public health hazards.

ed construction of a pipeline at least as far as El Toro, and help with the cost of a line from there on to the MWD feeder line near Santiago dam. It looked like no soap.

But San Clemente is now interested. One night last week, Browning, with Glenn P. Allen of Orange, president of the Orange County Municipal Water district, and Attorney M. B. Wellington, counsel for that district and the Coastal Municipal Water district, attended a mass meeting in San Clemente, sponsored by the Taxpayer's association there.

Opinion expressed there favored a full study of the question of joining MWD by annexing either to the Orange County Municipal Water district or the Coastal district.

San Clemente's interest in MWD undoubtedly was generated by recent defeat of the $460,000 water bond issue there, which left the city facing the necessity of doing something else about water.

The need there is not yet acute, it is said. They feel safe with their local supply for another 10 years. But unless they do something soon to reserve capacity rights in lines that will be built during the next several years by MWD to serve OCMWD, they may find themselves facing far heavier cost of importing water when their supply is outgrown a decade hence.

In fact, the south end has already missed the boat in just that way, with respect to the Coastal Municipal Water district. That district extends down to the edge of Dana Point and would offer a closer connection than OCMWD. But the line there is already built, and it isn't large enough to accommodate any more territory, report says.

So San Clemente is in the mood to do something. And there will be a mass meeting in San Juan Capistrano's high school auditorium March 17, to deal with the same question. That end of the county does not want to find itself in a bind when it really needs outside water.

Moreover, it is now believed possible that the entire southern area, with an assessed valuation around $18,000,000, might work out something with the El Toro district and the Irvine Co. for point construction of a supply line from Santiago dam to the vicinity of San Clemente, without breaking everybody up in business.

Local Lodge To Host Calif. IOOF Grand Master Bianchi

In its eighteen months of life, the youngest Odd Fellows lodge in Orange county, Cypress Lodge No. 77 will celebrate one of the highlights of lodge history when Gene J. Bianchi, Grand Master of the California jurisdiction of Odd Fellowship visits here. A small lodge room made it necessary to secure use of the Cypress Elementary school for Tuesday evening when the event takes place.

Mrs. Thelma Essex, ways and means chairman of the sister Rebekah lodge, is head of the committee which is planning the chicken dinner at 6:30 which will be served in the school utility room. She is being assisted by committee members Mmes. Leona Caul, Evie Junker, Kay Jackson and Anna McCoid.

At 8:00 o'clock the lodge will be called to order in the auditorium and after a short session the meeting will be opened for Rebekahs and other guests, friends of the order. Grand Master Bianchi will address the meeting and visiting dignitaries will be introduced.

The meeting will be followed by the March Orange county "Round Up" when pies furnished by the visitors and coffee by the Cypress lodge will be served.

SLATE ELECTION VFW POST HERE

At Thursday evening's meeting of the VFW, the evening of April 24 was set for installation of officers, at eight o'clock. Election will take place the last meeting this month following nominations at next week's session, March 13.

A date for dedication ceremonies when the post will adopt its new name of "C. R. Rogers Memorial VFW Post No. 9847" will be set when the new officers assume their duties.

Three visitors from the auxiliary to the post discussed plans for a joint money-making event. They were Mrs. H. J. G. Kreissler, Mrs. Ray E. Lucas, and Mrs. E. E. Goodman, president.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skinner, brother-in-law and sister of James A. Bolinger, Jr., enjoyed a visit here recently with the Bolinger family on Grace st. Skinner is a contractor and made the trip between jobs. He is now building a new schoolhouse since returning home.

Choral Group To Meet Here

Recently organized, the Mothersingers' group is getting off to a good start under the leadership of Mrs. J. Lee Rogers, director.

The chorus which includes members from Cypress, meets twice a month. The next meeting will be in Mrs. Rogers' home, 13371 E. North St., Anaheim on Monday evening, March 10, at eight o'clock.

On Tuesday evening, March 18, a meeting will be held in the Cypress school auditorium. All women who are interested in chorus work are urged to attend and join in the music effort. Individual groups from the various areas in the county work on the same musical numbers, and may be merged into larger choruses at any time.

Weekend guests of the Elmer McWilliams were Mrs. McWilliams' sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jere Foutz of Avenal.

HOLD NOMINATIONS AT VFW AUXILIARY

Nominations for officers to function during the coming year were made at Monday night's regular meeting of the VFW auxiliary.

A gross of chemical cloths for cleaning eye-glasses has been purchased. They will be sold in the community in order to raise money for the group's general fund.

To aid the special home fund, a spaghetti dinner is being planned for March 16 at the VFW hall. Mrs. Ray E. Lucas, home fund chairman, is in charge.

Confirmation has been received that the official name of the group is auxiliary to the C. R. Rogers Memorial VFW Post No. 9847.

Refreshment committee named for the month is Mrs. Bea Hahn, Mrs. H. J. G. Kreissler and Mrs. Ruth Lockman.

Do you dread washday?
Then you need an automatic GAS CLOTHES DRYER
If you still dry your laundry outdoors, you're working much too hard. You need an automatic gas clothes dryer that dries clothes indoors—that dries them fluffy-soft in a matter of minutes—that's ready to serve you day or night, rain or shine.
Tossing wet laundry into an automatic gas clothes dryer is as easy as tossing it into a hamper. You set the control for bone-dry or ironing-damp, which eliminates sprinkling.
Gas dries laundry faster than Southern California sunshine... faster than any other fuel. Gas costs little, too—only 2¢ to 3¢ per dryer-full. See your appliance dealer today—learn that the installed prices of automatic gas clothes dryers are lower than those of other automatic dryers.
